We have represented as many or more investors in securities cases than any other firm in Oregon, and have recovered hundreds of millions of dollars for our clients. We also represent investors across the Northwest and nationally. We're tireless advocates and the fiercest of competitors. Experience and wisdom matter, and we bring both to your case.

Are You an Individual Investor?

Stoll Berne represents individual investors in court against brokerage firms, investment advisors, fiduciaries, registered representatives, and investment advisor representatives. We also represent investors before the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA). We help investors recover losses from unsuitable investments, fraud, churning, unauthorized trading, margin disputes, theft, negligence, breach of fiduciary duty, elder abuse, and many other types of misconduct involving investments. We also represent groups of investors in class actions and mass actions. If you feel you've been the victim of investment fraud, negligence, elder abuse, or other misconduct involving your investments, Stoll Berne would like to speak with you. Click below to learn more.

Are you an Institutional Investor?

Stoll Berne has a long history of representing institutional investors, including the State of Oregon and the Oregon Public Employees' Retirement Fund and recovering losses due to securities fraud and other investment-related misconduct. We have served as lead and trial counsel in a number of national and local class actions. We also represent institutional investors in "opt out" cases where the institution is better served fighting for its own interest in local courts. With the assistance of our securities monitoring software, we advise funds on the best strategy for recovering their investment losses. In addition, we counsel our clients on corporate governance issues and litigation strategies for enforcing shareholder rights and encouraging change in the corporate culture of large Wall Street firms, and both public and private companies.
