

Trademark Enforcement for Footwear Company

The firm represented an innovative, growing Portland-based shoe company in a lawsuit to enforce its trademark rights against infringement by a global footwear brand. Stoll Berne obtained a consent judgment and permanent injunction against future infringement of the client's rights.