

Denney Road Industrial Park

Stoll Berne attorney Andy Davis served as lead counsel for a privately owned real estate holding company in its master planning, sale, and leasing of a five-building industrial complex, including negotiating and documenting the lease of an entire building to a window and door manufacturer in connection with an affiliate business asset sale. Upon remediation of certain historical environmental conditions at the site, Andy negotiated and completed the disposition of the entire complex to a local investor. The final disposition of this property completed the strategic winding up of a family owned manufacturing business that had operated in the Portland area since 1926.
