

Real Estate Investment and Securities Fraud Litigation

Stoll Berne attorney Josh Ross represented a former NFL player who invested $400,000 in a real estate development. After the developer refused to return the investment pursuant to the terms of the investment agreement, the investor retained Ross to make a formal demand and pursue litigation. The developer returned the full investment before a lawsuit was filed.